profile

My name is Ryan Tempo, I am self-propelled by my restless curiosity and excited by collaboration and team building. The search for the least expected outcome is what compels me to problem solve. To make a different stand on a subject and challenge what the conventional means of an idea brought to the table.

The tactility of design and art are what draw me to it and keep me interested. Seeing what can be done with materials. The computer is a fantastic tool, but not always the best for the job. I am always open to new experiences and learning as much as I can.
